

A Touch of Handmade Silver Jewellery

You are beautiful, successful and independent. You like to be stylish, elegant and go with the fashion. You dress tastefully, have glamour fun and enjoy your life. But sometimes you feel like wishing for something very, very special. And then you open your casket and put on your favourite hand made silver sterling jewellery. Sterling jewellery has about 93 % of pure silver. This is the official criterion of purity within Great Britain as well as throughout the world. Pure silver cannot be used as it is too malleable and soft.

Silver combines often ideally with various stones; the rich energy of these stones looks perfectly magnificent set in a silver mount. Jewellery made up of fine silver captivates us with its beauty and virtuosity of filigree decoration. The stones take care of your health and are so pleasant, besides the natural beauty of the silver which also has antibacterial, disinfectant features. Since ancient times people knew this and used it widely for their own good. For example, keeping a silver spoon for some time in a bottle of water improves its composition and structure of the molecules that leads to the good taste of water and its energetic value. Silver tarnishes with wear and time, however it is really easy to take care of your silver. Try to keep your silver jewellery in a dry and cool place and avoid mixing all pieces of silver jewellery. We offer this piece of advice in order to keep your silver jewellery lustrous and shining also to polish it frequently with a soft dry cloth helps tremendously. If you want to clean some stones in silver jewellery- you may use some toothpaste or liquid soap, but remember to use a soft toothbrush to do it. Keep away from contacting with perfume, deodorant, hairspray or any chemicals. Pendant. A pendant carried at the neck always tells about special love. It can add some classical spirit to your look or vibrate with the urban hustle and evolution. It gives you a feeling of being like a star of a glamour fashion magazine. Rings. Rings mirror your own very individual style. Rings of any design, with gem stones or without them- cater for all tastes. Giving a ring to your beloved one is the best way offering to her your hand. It is really very noble and romantic. Necklace, chains. Long neck always treated as woman beauty. Even Nefertiti, the most beautiful and perfect Mistress of Upper and Lower Ancient Egypt adorned her beautiful neck. I think that if she lived nowadays- she would chose some sparkling silver necklaces or chains, interlacing with pearls or gem stones, crystals or quartz. Earrings and bracelets. Every woman or girl has a short black dress in her wardrobe. Dress it up and choose some nice earrings or a bracelet to match it. You will look amazing.

Any hand made jewellery might be a wonderful present for any occasion. You may combine bracelets with rings or necklaces, or with some earrings to match them in unexpected and wild combinations. All of which depend on your style and mood. It will give you charm and sense of confidence. Often, fine form and excellent quality of the handmade jewellery really entwine for a festive mood- silver jewellery conjure intrigue feelings, plays on chic, makes you very adorable, so smile and enjoy your life with fabulous hand made silver jewellery!
