

Farmers and Traders of World of Warcraft Gold

In World of Warcraft, one of the top selling massively multiplayer online role-playing game, many players are playing the game for fun, because this game is so interactive that everyone can play together with others, sharing their experience and playing as one team to finish some difficult tasks. But at the same time, many smart world of warcraft players make use of this game to make money. These kinds of players are known as Farmers and Traders, most of their activities are collecting world of warcraft gold and selling wow gold to other players.

Usually, world of warcraft gold farmers spend most of their time killing monsters and collecting the items these monsters drop, like weapons, world of warcraft gold pieces, and many other items. Sometimes they could have the chance to get very rare and valuable items. For the weapons and items they get, the common way they do is to go to the Auction House and exchange them with a certain amount of wow gold. But for World of warcraft gold pieces they gathered during the hours of killing and combating, they usually sell them to vendors or to other game players to earn a lot of cash.

The majority of world of warcraft gold farmers come from China, usually operated by some dedicated groups. These groups provide professional training to them and tell them how to collect as much gold as possible in the shortest time. Usually farmers don't speak English at all and their routine job every day is log in the game, go to certain places, killing monsters and collecting items and gold pieces. Yes, the job is simple, What they need to do is spend most of their waking hours in front of computer screens, immersed in complex, three-dimensional virtual world, and meeting and vanquishing enemies or even the same enemy over and over. They suffer from a lot of resentment from other players because these players believe the farmers who concentrate on violent games become wealthy by defeating enemies and harvesting the spoils of victory. Actually, their lives are not so easy as it may sound with the low salary and the bad working conditions.

Traders are those who are engaged in selling world of warcraft gold to game players. They usually buy world of warcraft gold from gold farmers with a very low price, and then sell the gold to the millions of players at high prices to seek for profit. To meet the players who want to buy world of warcraft gold online, these traders established their own companies, developed the professional websites, hired many staffs for customer support and operated in a professional way as most business do. and Usually some gamers consent the involvement of world of warcraft traders because it disrupts the flow of the game and drives inflation for goods and services. The dispute also exists between the traders and Blizzard Entertainment, which owns "World of Warcraft". Blizzard has shut down thousands of suspected accounts, But the gold traders are becoming increasingly brazen because they think they are maximizing the gamers' experience with this kind of dedicated services.
